How to qualify:

The top 8 cars in USC standings going into the grand final that HAVE NOT finished on the podium during any of the USC rounds during the 24/25 season, will qualify for the Lucky Dog Challenge.

The Lucky Dog Challenge is a stand-alone race for prize money only (no points) to reward the drivers that have supported the series but failed to finish on the podium throughout the season. If the driver doesn't choose to race in this event, the next highest driver in points at the grand final that hasn't ran a podium during the USC series will make up the field to ensure a full compliment of 8 cars start the Lucky Dog Challenge.

The starting line up will be a 4-car invert based on qualifying times from that night. Eg. 4th fastest of this 'lucky dog' group of drivers will start pole, with 5th fastest starting from position 5 and so on.

This stand alone race will be held after qualifying but before the heat race, with ample time either side of Lucky Dog Challenge so they aren't disadvantaged during the Grand Final of Queensland Speedway Spares Ultimate Sprintcar Championship.
